

Woolworth Building penthouse sells for just $30M

Once one of the most publicized homes in Manhattan, the Woolworth Building's "Pinnacle" penthouse turned out to be anything but.

After six years on the market — and multiple price cuts — the 12,000-square-foot apartment finally sold for $30 million, barely a quarter of the original $110 million asking price, the Wall Street Journal reported.

The buyer, New York-based art collector Scott Lynn, paid $2,500 per square foot for the Tribeca penthouse.

For the full story, visit <http://therealdeal.com>

